Growing up with musicians as parents he was constantly surrounded by all kinds of music, something that came to be the foundation for the special blend he now produces, as well as his love for good music of all genres. He began playing drums at the age of 8 and a few years later he also took interest in keyboard, bass, guitar, making beats and the art of recording, with time turning him into the multiskilled musician/producer/songwriter he is today. After the highly acclaimed 12 EP Beat Dimensions on which Veebeeo featured with the track No more comes now his debut 12 EP Instrumentality. A 6 track EP with head nodding beats for ya eardrums, CHECK! Reviews/Quotes: Canada: Textura: "Instrumentality , a succinct six-pack from VeeBeeO (Stockholm-born Tim Lundblad), offers head-nodding boom-bap and a whole lot more besides. Lundblad's drummer roots are all over the material with most tracks built from the grooves up and, though the genre is nominally hip-hop, the 12-inch disc's material is closer to broken beat. Tracks like "Cast" and "Klox" lurch and stagger over twitchy guitar funk, while "Fraktur" spices things up with synth sweetener and bass guitar flourishes. The cheeky "December" takes Lundblad's snappy boom-bap for a breezy, fusion-flavoured spin, and brightens the jubilant mood with a sing-song choir of melodicas. Squeezing six tracks into twenty minutes leaves no time for excess or long-windedness and, in truth, some of the pieces sound more like three-minute jams than fully-fledged compositions, but it's hard to quarrel with the aromatic likes of "Byxa" when its skanky groove kicks one so forcefully in the gut." USA: Properly Chilled : " A great set of rhythmically driven cuts accompanied by fantastic artwork on the sleeve. Fun for all the family. " USA: Erasoul : "Sweden's Tim Lundblad produces a peculiar brand of instrumental hip-hop. Like cartoon robots in a rainbow factory, battling in slow motion syncopation. Very fun to listen to. HIGHLY RECOMMENDED" GERMANY: Jay Scarlett(Spacek): " And what an artist he is amazing music !" UK: Hudson Mo : " That Veebeeo ep is killing me just now, so dooope. props for that!"
