For him, theres no escaping it. He is deep to the core, singing, playing guitar, bass, percussion and producing, with influences ranging from the Beatles, Rush and Todd Rundgren to Smashing Pumpkins and Earth Wind & Fire, across the spectrum to Outkast, Madonna, Michael Jackson and Marilyn Manson. Born in Manhattan, Keli first hit Los Angeles as a preteen. As he had done in NYC, he garnered auditions and roles in film, commercials and television shows. As a kid, I was unsure of what I wanted to do, act or play music. All I knew was that no matter what, it would involve performing on stage. When time allowed, I made it out to the night clubs and concert halls. The first band I saw was Kiss, then Motley Crue, I just flipped. I knew this was the career I wanted. At 18 he cut his teeth alongside such artists as Guns N Roses, Poison and L.A. Guns. Being a multiple instrumentalist didnt hurt either. Numerous city performances, featured guitarist with legendary country artist David Allen Coe in Hawaii, sharing the stage with heavy metal icon Lemmy Kilmister and Motorhead, touring some Asian countries, all have culminated to enable him in the development of a unique sound in his recordings and live performances. Under the guidance of award wining songwriter - producer Howard Rice, Keli co-produced his first CD. He discovered that being on the producing end was equally as rewarding and just as much fun. Keli continues to push the envelope with his cutting edge solo performances, one of which included performing as a guest guitarist at The Whisky, in tribute to the Godfather of soul James Brown.
