Playing shows ranging from local halls across New England to heralded clubs such as The Avalon in Boston, Brunswick has developed a strong base of loyal fans eagerly anticipating this new release. Brunswick formed in the winter of '03 when founding members Mike Addonzio (guitar) and Joe Broderick (bass), formerly of Yesterdays Scandal, recruited Ian Bergeson (vocals), bringing with him an enormous song-writing presence. With the addition of Ian's vocals and writing ability, the bands potential grew to the point where Mike and Joe began to seek more musically diverse and passionate musicians to fill out their yet undefined sound. While playing gigs in northern Massachusetts they discovered Craig Bray (drums) whose mildly ridiculous chops would finally allow Brunswick to reach its full rock potential. The final addition was Andrew Buonfiglio (lead guitar/ vocals), who was recruited by co-founder Mike for his unparalleled skills and sick devotion to 80's rock, which occasionally leads to full band interventions. Told In Photographs is a twelve song set ranging from brutally rocking anthems to heartfelt songs of love and angst. Featured songs include: Train Wreck (Track 8), a bruising story of love and hate; 404 (Track 2), an up tempo epic of lost love; and Dream Sequence Soundtrack (Track 4), a hard rocking serenade to a fictitious beauty.
