A tribute to Sanchez the songwriter, he has written songs others will gladly be a part of, find connections to, and over and over he turns phrases artfully, with tracks by Darius Rucker, Theresa Andersson, Susan Cowsill, John Boutte and more. 13 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, COUNTRY: Country Folk Show all album songs: Between Friends Songs Details: After 16 years with the popular rock band Cowboy Mouth, Paul Sanchez has stepped out on his own. He is a cat with eight lives used up and he's damn glad to be here. Paul is a troubadour from New Orleans. He is a storyteller. His own as well as ours. He is a student and a teacher. A traveler that finds home in a thousand different faces every night. For more than 16 years, Paul and the other members of Cowboy Mouth embraced, embodied, preached and shouted at the top of their lungs the joys of their hometown, New Orleans. Together, they shared a slice of Mardi Gras heaven with fans around the world on 11 recordings and at their legendary live shows. To date those shows have been witnessed by more than 8 million people and described best by Cake magazine when it noted: "...on a bad night they'll tear the roof off the joint and on a good night they'll save your soul." Now he embarks on a solo career, spinning his tales and singing his songs from the heart on new CDs, and in clubs and living rooms across America. Paul writes songs the way your grandmother might have crafted quilts, painstakingly sewing the pieces together to form a blanket that will keep you warm when it's time to rest your head. Paul entertains and provokes. He holds your hand and he slaps your wrist. He's lived a thousand lives, but he wakes up everyday with the wide eyes of a new born babe. Paul has a skewed vision of the world that comes only with an existence based in New Orleans, a city rampant with celebration and despair. It's beyond colloquialisms and language. It's more of a slant and feel. It's in the words he loves, and the friends he writes. It's in the pain of having known a welfare Christmas, the joy of having known a welfare Christmas, and the joy of having toasted fine wine from a grand European chateau. Cut him, it's in his blood. His latest CD, Between Friends (his 7th solo release) is now available, released in November 2006. It features 13 songs written by Paul and performed by his friends, including John Boutte, Susan Cowsill, Darius Rucker, Jim Sonifeld, Theresa Andersson and many others. Offbeat said The CD is a tribute to Sanchez the songwriter. He has written songs others will gladly be a part of, find connections to, and over and over he turns phrases artfully. He should be proud to see his work treated so lovingly. He will be touring in support of the new release throughout 2007.
