Evocative, provocative original songs with pop and rock influences, performed by the singer-songwriters, Leah Kunkel and Marty Gwinn Townsend. 11 MP3 Songs EASY LISTENING: Soft Rock, FOLK: Folk Pop
Details: The Coyote Sisters are Leah Kunkel and Marty Gwinn Townsend. Leah is probably best known for her background singing with such artists as Art Garfunkel, James Taylor, Jackson Browne, Dan Hill, and many others. Her prior releases include two solo albums on Columbia Records, and the first Coyote Sisters album on Motown. Marty, in addition to the first Coyote Sisters album, was 1/2 of Bishop Gwinn, who released their album on Infinity Records; she has also written and performed film scores, and has appeared in theater productions, including "Keepin' Em Off The Streets" (Robert Altman). Leah and Marty began collaborating in 1980 in Los Angeles where they met at a recording session. The original Coyote Sisters band, which included Renee Armand (who does not appear on this release, but co-authored one of the songs on it) was formed the same year.
