Starts you around the Black sea coast and then it moves west through Serbia to Italy, then Cuba and Jamaica, ending up in the Galactic Dub Council Diaspora of modern thinking. 12 MP3 Songs WORLD: Eastern European, WORLD: World Traditions Details: Four internationally-travelling friends've been Jamming this Planet together since 1998. Their "Tribal Healing" CD was released in 1999 and was well-received in a European tour that year from Romania through Hungary, Austria, Germany, Switzerland and Italy. The band has since dedicated itself to live performance and to accumulating new old traditional tunes worldwide. Planet Jam's "The Outer World" CD has just been released in 2004, and starts you around the Black sea coast before moving west through Serbia to Italy, then grooves over to Cuba and Jamaica to put you in the Galactic Dub Council Diaspora of modern thinking. Marius uses a guitar with synth, allowing brass instruments and sitar samples to meld perfectly with the exquisite virtuosity of harmony and sound that he masters from the strings of his Gibson. Marius is also an accomplished and rhythmic Didjeridoo player. Kacy surely and steadily balances between melody and rhythm on the bass, bridging the guitar and percussion virtuosity that her band is known for. Corey Holop plays reggae and funk on his trapset most excellently. He is also extremely versatile, adapting at the drop of a hat to Eastern European and other world beats. Cecil Carter is a world-class percussionist specializing in Afro-cuban and Caribbean rhythms. He knows how to make you swing your pants and bring good cheer.
