The strings go chugga-chugga. The transistors go bleepy-zing. An extraordinary mix of orchestra and electronica delivering melodic songs with meaning. 12 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Electronica, ELECTRONIC: Experimental Details: The Vince Rogers Project is a new electronica duo, based in London, formed in Spring 2007. They are Sam Duffy on vocals and Vince Rogers on keys and programming. Vince was part of 80s electronic bands Testcard F and Gee Mr Tracy. Londoners may also remember Vince from his time as a reporter on Carlton TVs London Tonight. (For a reminder, search YouTube for Vince Rogers). Sam has long experience fronting covers bands, and working as a musician playing saxophone in groups, orchestras and saxophone quartets. Lily Rose Petunia is a home made album, lovingly crafted by hand and bypassing conventional record companies. It was recorded on a PC in a bedroom with many breaks for cups of tea and creative discussions in the garden. The result is refreshingly different, a mixture of orchestral and electronic sounds overlaid with a range of vocal styles and harmonies commenting on the vagaries of modern life the loneliness of MySpace "80 Million Friends", peoples reactions to 7/7 "Were Not Afraid" or the desire to be remembered "Bouquet on a Lamppost". Imagine Kraftwerk meets Vivaldi meets Ute Lemper.
