Zuppa is a soulful organ quartet driving the needle into the red zone of latin funk. 11 MP3 Songs JAZZ: Latin Jazz, ELECTRONIC: Funk Details: "Zuppa demonstrates that it's mastered the icy groove" -John Chandler, Portland Tribune Zuppa is an instrumental soul jazz organ quartet comprised of A.G. Donnaloia (guitar), Dave Fleschner (Hammond B3), Anthony Jones (drums), and Roby Edwards (Saxophone). Audiences have responded to the band's passionate intimacy as if they were on some adrenaline-raising mid-way ride. Guitarist/composer Donnaloia, of the big band Grooveyard, had always dreamed of assembling an organ trio that enjoined stellar players, tasty tunes and intuitive playing. A.G., Dave, and Anthony met in May of 2002 and at the first practice nailed seven songs; by that summer, they had three sets ready to debut. Roby moved to Portland from Pittsburgh in 2003 and his flamboyant presence added the final spice to the soup. Donnaloia is lauded for his exquisite guitar tone - a dark warm timbre reminiscent of Wes Montgomery and George Benson. Dave has mastered the groove potential of the Hammond B3, influenced by masters like Brother Jack McDuff, Larry Young and Don Patterson. Anthony draws on his gospel-based training. His soulful R&B sound is informed by remarkable timing, clear tone and versatility, reflected by the influences of Israel Annoh, Dennis Chambers and Ray Tellis. The essence of Roby's style is beauty and purity of sound. Years of study and personal development have given Roby the full, rich, expansive and expressive sound of a stylist. The economy inherent in the structure of an organ quartet is fully realized in Zuppa as they inspire each other while leaving room for each other. They share a close attention to detail yet keep their ears wide open. "As a group we all have a puzzle piece," muses Donnaloia. "It's less about soloing and more about four individuals coming together to create really compelling music." ZUPPA Contact; A.G. Donnaloia 503 407 4558 ucanfindag@hotmail.com
