It's a fabulous mix of easy listening melodies and warm, sophisticated harmonies. Steve has been singing and playing guitar all his life. A former "Acappella" singer, this unique sounding vocalist knows harmony and blends his approach in a rich, warm sound unlike any other performer today. He has put together a group of top notch musicians to record his original works, and the results have been wonderfully received. From the simply arranged "Why Do U Do What U Do?" to the fully orchestrated "There's Always Tomorrow", Steve creates a mood and a soothing sound that is truly his own. The band recently performed 4 separate one hour Featured Artist Specials on the "ARTISTFIRST WORLD RADIO NETWORK" on the internet. Although scheduled for one show, the band was brought back 3 more times in a short period of time. REVIEW: "This man obviously knows how to write music, and his warm harmonies are great" "It's clear he writes from the heart." Scott Z. ARTISTFIRST RADIO NETWORK Garageband.com Reviews: greatest feel good track ever! "yeah, this is nice. nice beat. great vocals. very beachy yet not as boring as frankie avalon. i hope you're gonna beat out those silly kids with the warbling vocals. this is it! i love how you go into the 7th chord on the first chord. and that's when your vocals crack. awesome. i listen to every little detail. i like the harmonies. nice touch to have the female vocal harmonize below you. you've got talent and the works. lots of luck and hope you make it to the top." Reviewed by: Havlasa from Praha, American Samoa, Czech Republic "i'm not even kidding, this is awesome those vocals are great. so's that shuffle beat. i would just like, totally bust a nut if i heard some really great bacharach or carpenters horns on this song. that's the only thing that could be make it better, but it's really good as it is. i'm not even kidding. it's excellent." Reviewed by: j_brooks026 from Minneapolis, Minnesota Steve writes, arranges, performs, and produces all his work. He has been joined by his son Stephen, an accomplished bass player in his own right the last few years. The rest of the band includes Johnny Burke on lead guitar, Charlie Nardino on rhythm guitar, Eric Buesing on drums and percussion, and Joelle Hook doing some back up vocals. Also making cameo appearances on this CD are Neil Rambaldi, a brilliant guitarist whose solo CD, "Perpetual Horizons" has reaped critical acclaim, Brian Csencsits, a gifted musician and producer adding all the piano and keyboard tracks, and Michael Brothen, an outstanding vocalist singing a duet with Steve on "There's Always Tomorrow." All in all, "All Alone Tonite" is a must listen for those with a discerning ear for a soothing voice, great melodies, and a unique approach to music making!
