Doug started singing professionally in 1973 in Los Angeles and sang in New York clubs from 1978 to 1984. He began writing songs in 1978 and produced his first album featuring all original songs, Out of the Shadows, in 1994. "Home at Last is very personal. I see it not only as a tribute to my mother, but as a gift to the people who have supported me all these years. In a way, it is a private concert. Greg Harris and I tried to create the feeling that the performance is live and upclose -- it really is a duet between the voice and the piano. Co-producer Mark Goldstein, who engineered and mastered the album, has managed to create a sound that makes the voice and the piano feel as though they are in the room with the listener -- it is an album lush with sound yet very clean and very present -- a very personal performance. We have balanced the CD with songs from the Broadway stage, great jazz standards such as "Stardust" and "Someone to Watch Over Me," and three of my original compositions. Every song tells a story and is a very personal statement."
