A combination of Nashville meets Jamaica, along with a pinch of life's reflections. 11 MP3 Songs
COUNTRY: Country Pop, WORLD: Island Details: "And he's strummin'some Jimmy Buffett He's pickin' a George Strait tune He can play your requests if you ask him to He's chuggin' down margaritas While sippin' his roadhouse brew And the Tropical Cowboy plays for you" Jerry Pellegrino is a singer/songwriter who has lived in Naples, Florida since 1996. Originally from New York City, he performed with various groups and bands before forming the duo, "Lang Pellegrino" with Joseph Lang in 1976. After performing for 20 years in the White Mountains of New Hampshire at various hotels and "ski" areas, the duo decided it was time to migrate south. Jerry now performs as a solo artist and can be seen "...on the stage, across from the bar" at various tropical, resort hotels and "tiki" bars in Southwest Florida, "...singing songs about oceans and rodeo girls, beaches, sunsets, horses and jails." His mixture of original "island/reggae/calypso" and "country" songs shows his passion for both genres which he blends and weaves throughout his nightly performance, along with his more introspective songs about love and life. His album of original songs, "The Tropical Cowboy," is a refreshing combination of "Nashville" meets "Jamaica," along with a "pinch" of life's reflections.
