Every time Lance records I'm amazed by his songwriting output and his great ear for putting together good sounding tunes. His dedication to music is paying off and this album shows it." This effort captures 5 years of songwriting that covers many changes in life, and allowing change to be a beautiful thing. The studio sessions were pure magic as I feel you will hear in the music itself. The album was recorded in three days in the summer of 2007. All musicians on this album shine in their instruments, and compliment eachother gracefully. The songs move from a band feel, to a break down of just me and a guitar, which I felt would take the listener on a roller coaster ride, highs lows. I've never had an album flow the way this one did in the entire process from the drawing board demo, the practice sessions, to the studio and duplication. This effort marks my 5th studio effort in 9 years, and I feel it is my best effort to date, I hope you will enjoy the ride. This is what Engineer Gary Burger has to say about Lance's new album...
