Details: This particular song "Come Back To Me" was a truly inspired and channeled song which I totally dedicate to my father, Michael Angelo. It was upon his passing that this all came to be. On a very cold winter's night I received an email (that was forwarded with an attachment) about The Little House. This was a charming little house in Toronto, Canada that many people were enamored by. I had thought that the original email was sent through a friend who knew the man that I had recently answered. As it turns out they did not really know one another well, but we're people that loved this cute little house. After a few emails and some confusion I felt that we all had some karma connected with this house and started to imagine a story. This was like a small screen play in my mind that would describe two people that actually met in this most charming little house and fell in love. All true love does not come to be without some type of sacrifice so there is where my own personal experiences came into play. I thought of love new and fresh and then somewhat jaded by miscommunications and separation's. In the end there is of course a hopeful reunion with love and trust. Maria
