Multiple philosophies but bottom line, as you see my music/image to be dark and evil, most will conclude me to be just that, yet in all reality with the industry filled with rappers who speak of materialism, and sex they are accepted and not shunned yet those things can be the true evil, so in fact i am it's complete opposite, i also deal with the other reality that man has a dark side, not meaning evil, but to deny this we deny who and what we are. Death is a part of life, we start dying from the time we are born (hence the imagery of death) i don't see it as evil but as a part of life. maybe even the beginning of peace. the anger and supposed metaphors to violence are a message to who and what we are as humans, at war always, even with our selves. on the personal tip, i don't like what i see, an industry that is based on bling and sex, at the world...i see less i like, i have a track called four horseman, in it i am DEATH...is death evil? no. i know i have marketable and street credibility but the hip hop music industry has no balance, how many bling bling songs can fill the radio waves? even on the underground scene i am a bit unique, it will take proper promotion and hard work but without struggle there can be no progress. Yet I have to smile when i think of iron maiden, kiss taking rock to another level, maybe i can accomplish the same, my fans wont be fans but a following, leaving me with longevity. hopefully im not too ahead of my time. So check out DARK REIGN im sure you wont be disappointed.
