Latin-Jazz-Funk 6 MP3 Songs WORLD: World Fusion, JAZZ: World Fusion Details: Rebeca Vallejo Project transcends such conventional labels as Jazz, Latin, World or Funk. Rebeca Vallejo Project's self-titled debut album is the product of an ever-evolving sound, relentless in its pursuit of creative nirvana. Equal parts nomad and musician, Rebeca Vallejo's life has led her across several continents and infused her music with an awareness and understanding of a multitude of cultures. Born into a family of singers in Madrid, Spain, Rebeca was immediately immersed in the rich musical language of flamenco, hand in hand with her grandfather, himself a flamenco singer. Starting her public performances by the time she was four years old, the musical journey that began in an urban neighborhood of Madrid eventually took Rebeca to Great Britain, where she developed a passion for Jazz, although Rebeca's musical interest eventually expanded from Jazz to Rock to Soul to all points in between. Despite her accomplishments in Europe, the sound that Rebeca was pursuing could only be found in New York City. Arriving in New York in 2000, Rebeca first developed a solid career as a Latin Jazz singer that has taken her to some diverse stages from Belgium to Cuba, always accompanied by the most sought after Latin Jazz instrumentalists. Soon she began to focus progressively on writing original music and thus was born the "Rebeca Vallejo Project". Rebeca Vallejo Project manages to entertain and move her audiences in ways few bands do, with an intensity that stays with the listener long after the lights have gone up.
