Details: What do you get when you teleport two indoor kids into the next century, equip them with synthesizers and let their imaginations run wild? The result is HYPERBUBBLE, an electronic duo with a sweet tooth for pop and a penchant for squiggly sounds. Jess takes the stage in Jem-like fashions, with a voice reminiscent of Blondie and Goldfrapp, while Jeff robotically rocks behind a veritable Death Star of synthetic music-making devices. To Hyperbubble, guitars are "retro", and sequencers are the key to the future. The photogenic duo load their lyrical cannon with fast cars, fast food, 1-800 numbers and love songs to their synthesizers. Although songwriting is a key element to their music, they have never shied away from the occasional instrumental, and have done remixes for the likes of Femme Fataality, Nun, and Mission Giant. Hyperbubble's debut CD, SOLID POP is an addictive collection of bionic beats, bouncy synth lines and melodies that stick to the side of your cranium like a tasty wad of Hubba Bubba. Get your hands on some SOLID POP today! Fans of Depeche Mode, Devo, Yello, Fischerspooner, and Ladytron will surely be pleased.
