DOWNLOAD HERE

Beautiful chamber music featuring cello and guitar, two cellos, cello and piano, cello and viola and solo cello. Nothing too heavy here, just a wonderful mix of melodies in classical forms superbly recorded by Nashville's finest symphony players. 18 MP3 Songs CLASSICAL: Chamber Music, CLASSICAL: Classical era Show all album songs: Five Works for Cello Songs Details: Are you tired of the same ol' classical music re-recorded and re-issued by a new batch of musicians? Isn't there anybody writing good classical music today? Well, get ready to discover a great new talent, a great new composer capable of re-inventing classical music with a modern sense of melody. The composer's name is Sterling Dakota Forrester and his first offering, Five Works for 'Cello, is truly beautiful classical music - not New Age, not Easy Listening, but contemporary melodic classical chamber music that not only the listener will enjoy, but also the players. (Music scores are available.) The music features Julia Tanner, the gifted and award-winning 'cellist from the Nashville Symphony Orchestra who is joined by other symphony players and friends, Anthony LaMarchina ('Cello), Robert Marler (Piano), Monisa Angell (Viola) and the composer himself playing guitar with Julia on the first five tracks. The range of musical influences in Sterling's music ranges from Baroque, to Classical, to Romantic, to a very contemporary solo 'Cello suite that is both hauntingly beautiful and humorous. Sterling Dakota Forrester has two, as yet unreleased classical CDs in the works. He also has a fantastic Pop offering (see Xenophobiac!) and a collection of children's music for gradeschool children (see Kid's Days Holidays).
