RELEASED IN 2000. Tom Petty the day he forgot his anti-depressants. 11 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk Pop, ROCK: Americana Details: David Morreale honed his performing and songwriting skills in the British music scene. In London and the rest of Europe he made a living as a street musician, and played at folk clubs such as Bunjies in London's Leicester Square, a club which had in it's time featured luminaries like Bob Dylan and Paul Simon. David traveled the length and breadth of Europe for over ten years playing on streetcorners and in clubs wherever he went. Since returning to the United States David has performed at hundreds of venues around the country. The Bluebird, The Sidewalk in NYC, Jammin' Java, and The Susquehanna Music and Arts Festival are just a few. David has also been writing songs for film, including "Hope" by Director Tamika Lamison and "Bliss" an upcoming feature film by Writer/Director Cleve Lamison. "If Richard Thompson, Steve Earle and David Wilcox were to travel the country in a '58 Thunderbird writing songs, those tunes might come out sounding something like David Morreale." --- Cleve Lamison, BlackBird Films  Plus untold numbers of pubs, clubs, alleyways, streets, sidewalks, closets, dorm rooms, brothels, hookah dens, basements, colleges, rallys, NASCAR tracks, backseats, doorways, dog-grooming rooms, pit beef BBQ's, ale houses, and other places of ill-repute and spiteful behaviour.
