Details: Review by Modern Bard E-Zine: "The album begins with a favorite of mine, "Epona" which was only available on the later release of "Fairie Queen". Now redone acoustically, the song is more haunting than ever before. It is hard to find a fiddler at faire who surpasses Kenny in his gypsy flavored fiddle playing. "Audra", the second song on the CD, is a perfect example. The feel of the music conjures images of varda wagons encircling a bonfire under a moonlit night. Another favorite (and one worth purchasing the album for) is "The Old Woman Was A Gypsy". The song is more contemporary in lyrical content, but it strikes directly to the heart of anyone who has sat beside a bonfire at faire, watching the smoke carry their dreams skywards."
