No artist speaks this language with more eloquence and style than A7, the sizzling band of brothers whose small-town heritage filters through and enriches their silky, smooth flair. Ministers, entrepreneurs and educated musicians having studied a variety of musical genres, the brothers (Arcelious, Alonzo, Alexander, Andronicus, Antipas and Antonio) integrate ministry, and various musical styles, including jazz, legendary Motown R&B, classical, blues, rock, hip-hop, gospel and other ethnic sounds, to produce a unique image and an urban soul-stirring flavor in the music that captures audiences from the cradle to the elderly. A7 calls their music inspirational urban soul. The group is called "A7" because all of the members' names begin with the letter "A". There are "6" brothers. The "7" acknowledges the presence of God. In addition, in hebrew scripture the number "7" signifies completion or maturity. When the brothers were younger, they called themselves "A- Boys". Now, they have matured in their sound. So, the number "7" replaces the word "boys," signifying that the brothers have matured and sound like the rich soulful sounds of the Motown legends. Therefore, the name is "A7". A7 is currently enjoying rising success as musicians and young entrepreneurs on the music scene. A7's recent performance on the Black Entertainment Television Network (B.E.T.) on the Bobby Jones Show has already gained the group national and international recognition for this CD self-titled A7. The CD includes collaborative productions between A7, 4x Grammy Award-winning producer Michael Mathis and hip-hop producer DJ Wilson. The CD includes mostly original songs from A7. This group has gained worldwide notoriety with television performances on other television networks, including the Angel Network, WORD Network and TBN (Trinity Broadcasting Network). Further, the group continues to give outstanding performances in parks such as Disney World, Six Flags Over Georgia and Kings Dominion as well as at schools, colleges, universities and churches across the country. Also, A7 was featured at one of the nine receptions at the Reagan Memorial Auditorium in Washington D.C. for the second-term inauguration of President G. W. Bush, 2005. Although music is an integral element, it does not completely characterize A7. The brothers are not merely talented musicians and singers, but are also both academically trained individuals. Furthermore, A7 sincerely believes that success is meaningless without deep spiritual roots and an abounding faith in God. Please visit a7musicfor more information on A7.
