AZOUHOUNI A true son of Africa -originally from the Ivory Coast, Azouhouni is more than a highly accomplished composer, musician and producer; he is indeed a musical force. Here Azouhouni presents a collection of thoughtfully crafted compositions: a journey through harmonic, vocal and, rhythmic colors in which African genres as diverse as bikutsi, ziglibithy, afrobeat, juju and High-Life meet their Western counterparts of funk, blues and jazz. ----- A REVIEW BY CHICO ALVAREZ: Excellent!
"Gotta Go" reveals yet another dimension in the realm of African Jazz. Multi-talented Azouhouni Adou has successfully tapped into his ancestral well and painted African voicings, rhythmic and harmonic colors and textures onto the traditional North American palette, enriching America's original art form in the process. By making this type of statement, he obviously seeks to bring the music full cycle. Invariably, his compositions and arrangements explore new horizons, but they also make a different kind of statement. Without having to rely on the old American Songbook, Azouhouni makes his unmistakable bow to the great masters of Jazz. Yet his music is all original. Through a conscientiously applied balance of musical styles, this artist has managed to keep the traditions cultivated by Fela, Mongo Santamaria, Osibisa, Machito, Hugh Masekela and Duke Ellington very much alive. In the midst of such an insipid musical environment as ours, the time is right for a such a revelation. It is a unique but not new concept. Original music. Original Back-To-The-Roots Jazz. Through the sheer force of his own vision, and with the cooperation and love of his musical crew, Azouhouni's music come forth, uninhibited, almost natural, with a good measure of discipline and a welcome touch of class.
