NEW AGE: Celtic New Age, EASY LISTENING: Instrumental Pop Show all album songs: Moving On Again: Instrumental Improvisations Songs Details: Jason Silver began playing music at age seven. His mother's family (The Abrams Family) has a long history of music, and Jason has continued to follow in the family's footsteps. The piano was his first instrument, but he now plays guitar, bass, drums, trumpet, Irish whistles, and more. Jason was influenced as a child by the music of his parents; bands like Blood, Sweat and Tears, Harry Chapin, and Tom T. Hall. He continued to grow musically as a young man by listening to the Beatles, The Eagles, Chicago, and eighties synth-pop groups. Today his main inspiration for both music and lyrics comes from groups like Chicago, U2, Sting, and Coldplay. He has performed across the United States and Canada but mainly plays local venues in Hamilton, Ontario. Jason Silver records his own music in his home studio, and markets it online. Visit myspace.com/jasondsilver to see his MySpace page. It is also available on Napster, AOL Music, and iTunes. The songs on "Moving On Again: Instrumental Improvisations," were originally recorded and released on the Album "Moving On..." in 1999. Jason Silver has released this album with new recordings, digital mastering, and has re-recorded most of the tracks as well. Check out Jason Silver's music-- you'll enjoy the fresh arrangements and be moved by the ambient sounds. Listen today!
