Her voice ranges from quiet and vulnerable to so powerful, it leaves an audience wondering How does that voice come out of that body? Heine has taken her time over the years to cultivate both her voice, completing a bachelor of music in vocal performance in 2004 and her song writing, participating in small festivals and small venue concerts. She enjoys a modest fan base in the coffee shops and open stages wherever she lives. Her experience volunteering in El Salvador in Central America has added very interesting political aspects to her already powerful lyrics. This next year will see the release of Heine's first CD Either Way, songs about life that feature Jessica's individual style and voice, and a fuller version of her acoustic sound complete with bass, percussion, guitar and a few extras.
