The Walking began in 2002 with one solo member, Arman Augusto. Initially an idea for a solo recording project, it eventually formed into the five piece outfit they are today (along with Jason Sonnabaum, Christian Motos, ila, and Brian P. Rickard). These artists are always into experimenting with new sounds and styles to add to their music. Each member is also involved in other projects as well, film soundtracks and scores, etc. Their album Thoughts and Intangibles was released on Halloween 2002 and can be found in independent record stores throughout their hometown of San Diego, CA. The album consists of 14 tracks, features some of the talents of other San Diego local musicians, and is intended to tell you different stories with each listen. Their second release The Walking (live), The Story of The Walking Wounded was released in early September 2003. It is a recorded live performance that shows the versatility of the band. Entering the year Manor/Model, an album Arman states "explores and studies the human emotion, with stories picturing reactions and scenarios caused by or causing certain emotions." Manor/Model was released in Spring 2004. -arman
