The didjeridoo has brought so much healing and insight to me. I wanted to offer for others the opportunity to feel the didjeridoo for themselves, not just hearing the sounds but really feeling them. The last track, Heartbeating Peace, has a great story behind it. On the day before we recorded the basic tracks for this CD, a successful classical bassist had done some recording in the same studio and had left his special mic for accurately capturing very low frequencies. We used this mic on some of the recording of the didjeridoo. And then later, at the end of the session, the idea came to place this mic right at my heart center. When the engineer got it so that the mic and studio electronics could pick up my heartbeat, I entered a meditation that connects one, quite powerfully, with the force of love shared by all inhabitants of Mother Earth. For 5 minutes I think, we recorded the heartbeat which then went through some sound filters to bring out just the sound/feeling of the beating heart. I'm very happy with the final result." From the CD: didjeridoo is a celebration of life! As the ancient drones of the didjeridoo are felt in the body, we drop into a state of vibratory oneness. From this place, we are birthed into a realm of complete freedom and limitlessness. All time and space are woven by the Dreamer into infinite reflections of Spirit. Answers, healings and profound visions lay waiting to be dreamed up. "Open again to what you've always known. Drop higher into your deeper experience of worlds beyond this one. Reserve quiet time and be clear on your intention. Love yourself beyond measure into spaces of eternal joy and peace. Remember into the future we are creating. . . . It is time."
