A collection of (mostly) sad, innocent, strummy songs by Gavin Stewart; not unlike the Smiths, REM, and U2--features guitar and engineering by Mod of NYC's Elephant--CHECK THIS OUT 11 MP3 Songs POP: British Pop, POP: 80's Pop Details: Music like the best party you will NEVER attend ... AND NOW AT A SUPER DISCOUNTED PRICE!!!!!!!!!!!!!! This is the first album from Gavin Stewart's Whale Blue Eye. Underproduced, semi-pretentious, just what the world needs now ... (and you thought it was love) IMAGINE! YOU CAN ALMOST SEE IT NOW: ... While those people who never really cared for you anyway are hanging out by the pool, listening to the mindless droning of a prepackaged, lip-synching mannequin, you and a few friends discover a secret room (windowless and painted black) where Hendrix jams with Kerouac, and Robert Smith argues that his lipstick was right on target after all. The words tell an ecstatic tale of alienation and longing, the music mournfully flows, and somehow you feel connected to something larger than yourself --but still quite secret in the best sense of the word. SOME RANDOM FACTS (AND ONE QUESTION) ABOUT WHALE BLUE EYE: The Stewart brothers, Gavin (guitar vocals) and Brian (bass guitar), have played in bands together since their early teens. Rumors to the contrary, no punches were ever thrown on stage. The name Whale Blue Eye is derived from a Dylan Thomas poem. And, as if that were not enough, Whale Blue Eye's "Pretty Picture" references both Rodin and Van Gogh (see?: nothing but pretentious drive!) "Psychic Faire" was written in less than an hour and recorded on the same day. Can you think of any other band (other than Motorhead) that uses the word "obsequious" in a song? If you can, please e-mail us. The song "Dizzy With Joy" uses the phrase "ether dream" ("... all the hatred for myself, faded like an ether dream"). Ether is featured prominently in John Irving's excellent novel, "The Ciderhouse Rules." Alas, ether is a word with many definitions. AFTER BUYING THIS CD YOU CAN MAKE YOUR OWN INTERPRETATION OF THE AFOREMENTIONED

PHRASE BASED ON HOW YOU SEE THIS SONG--AND THE WORLD--yes, yes, yes, FUN, FUN, FUN!!!!!!!!!!!!!! John Irving's latest novel, "Until I Find You," was published after "Dizzy With Joy" was released, so don't go looking for parallels there. But by all means read the novel and find out about the Rose of Jericho. Gavin has written "hundreds" of songs. Many are as yet unreleased. Brian used to play in a Grateful Dead cover band and has jammed with both Buddy Cage and Lenny Kravitz. Gavin jammed with Lenny Kravitz too, but not at the same time as Brian. Tony Angerson (who has since vanished into thin air) played drums on this CD. He also played on the Teenbeaters album "My World, My Sky," and on Jimmy Gnecco's first independent release, "Sour." One of Gavin's earliest memories: his mom listening to a cassette of the Beatles' "Magical Mystery Tour." Whale Blue Eye has a good friend named Mod who is an excellent sound engineer and guitarist, but NO ONE knows what planet he is from. Mod, who can now be seen with NYC hipsters Elefant, engineered the "Dizzy With Joy" sessions and provides additional guitars and odd noises. One night a small rat (or maybe it was a large mouse) visited Gavin and Mod, crawling down the wall of the studio as they tried to record one of these lovely ditties. Whale Blue Eye want you too to be "Dizzy With Joy." "The bows glided down, and the coast Blackened with birds took a last look At his thrashing hair and whale-blue eye." --Dylan Thomas
