Details: Leon Malia The songs of Leon Malia evoke the romance and mystique of Hawaii. Award winning vocalists, recording artists, composers, and performers, this versatile team is a musical bridge between Hawaii and the rest of the world. The works of Leon Siu and Malia Elliott range from film scores to commercial jingles, to symphonic orchestras, to children's songs, to contemporary and Hawaiian music. On Concert tours, they have shared the Aloha Spirit world wide, from college pubs to showrooms, symphony halls to sports stadiums, pop festivals to the ballrooms of ships at sea. Besides their nine Leon Malia albums, they have written and produced numerous other recordings including, "Boy With Goldfish," their prestigious recording with the London Symphony Orchestra, and the soundtrack for the National Geographic documentary, "The Voyage of the Hokule'a." Leon Malia are also Hawaii's favorite children's entertainers and songwriters. Each year, Leon Malia's concert tours reach tens of thousands of Hawaii's children with songs and stories that delight and inspire the children to explore the natural and cultural magic of their unique island home. Worldwide, the songs from their "Keiki Calabash" sing-along videos (tape and DVD) are teaching children how to sing and say Hawaiian words, and learn fascinating facts about Hawai'i's finned and feathered friends, island foods, special stars, and famous sailing canoes. Multi-talented and presenting aloha at its best, the musical team of Leon Malia are one of Hawaii's greatest treasures.
