The Antidote to the Wiggles: what if The Kinks, the Who and the Violent Femmes hooked up and wrote songs about the things kids really care about: garbage trucks, ketchup, making messes, staying up late, and more. Give it a listen. 13 MP3 Songs KIDS/FAMILY: Children's Pop, KIDS/FAMILY: General Children's Music Details: Mother's Little Helpers: The Antidote to Wiggles O.D. Do you ever wonder why most kids' music sounds like the Pooky Bunny hopping through the Pink Fluffy Forest with her Angel Friends Moo-Moo and Foo-Foo? Are you ever tempted to blast speed metal while your toddler is in the backseat, just for a change of pace? Well now, Zen Parents (and Zen Friends of Parents), there is a Middle Way. Pick up the new CD by Mother's Little Helpers and soon you and your child can be rocking out in a style you can both enjoy. We've taken the spirit of classic fun of vintage rock and roll-in the style of bands like the Kinks, early Who, Jonathan Richman and the Violent Femmes, and created funny, rockin' ditties about things that kids really care about: Garbage Trucks, Digging Holes To China, Why Everything Tastes Good With Ketchup, the Long, Long, Long March To Bed and much more. If you heard "Garbage Truck" on WFMU's Greasy Kid Stuff radio show on August 6th, (right after "I Love Trash" by Steven Tyler and Oscar the Grouch) then you've already had a taste who we are. You can hear samples of the CD right here, and at Motherslittlehelpers.biz. (Click the link to see our website-in-progress, but please return to CDBaby to place your order!) Your child's ears are precious. Don't let Pooky and Foo-Foo turn them to Mush!
