With their musical drive and innovative approach to arrangement they bring new life into traditional music. Originating from England, Ireland and the Scottish Borders, the group formed their musical friendship at the University of Newcastle upon Tyne where four members, became the first graduates of the new degree course in folk and traditional music in June 2005. Performing a mixture of traditional and contemporary material their music is rooted in their own individual styles, but its the crossing of their respective traditions that makes CrossCurrent such a musically diverse band.
