POP: Piano, POP: Quirky Details: Heather Edwards is a musician and actress. Originally from the San Francisco Bay Area, Heather currently lives in New York City. After graduating from Berklee College of Music in Boston, Massachusetts, she moved to Nashville, Tennessee and dabbled in many facets of the music industry. Having reached a plateau in her career and needing to try her acting wings, she decided to move to New York City. Since moving north, Heather has been actively pursuing her music and acting career; performing with many types of bands - from funk and rock to jazz and country and playing a wide range of characters as an actor. Heather trained her whole life as a classical pianist and continues to perform in that genre as much as possible. She started writing music at age eleven and continues to write and perform her own music as well as conduct, direct, and perform in musical theatre. She is currently working on her next CD projects: live classical performances and instrumental compositions. Heather is a member of AFM Local 802, Actors Equity Association and anticipates becoming a member of the Screen Actors Guild very soon. She has had many roles in television, film, and theatre.
