The Caribbean flavor of Contemporary Gospel. 15 MP3 Songs SPIRITUAL: Contemporary Gospel, POP: Pop Details: Jumelles (The Johnson Sisters) Jumelle, formally known as the Johnson sisters, were born to Antonia and Terry Johnson on November 2nd, 1978 on the Island of St. Maarten Netherlands Antilles. At the tender age of 11, the twins became the youngest members of their local senior church choir. Having a natural talent for music they continued to sing on their own and in different musical groups. Their talent gave them ample opportunities to compete in various musical competitions and win numerous awards. As they got older, their desire for competition began to change as they were called to music ministry. Inspired by the Holy Spirit, they started writing and composing music, and at age 14, began working on their first demo; which surprisingly got lots of attention from the community. The Demo raised the demand for an album. In 1995 their first album released entitled "Believe in a better day", which received rave reviews and gave the group many opportunities to minister through out the Caribbean and the United States. In 2001 they released another CD, entitled "Refuge". They have continued to do God's work through-out the Caribbean, Europe, the United States and Africa. Through accepting many invitations to various conventions and concerts, they have been able to work with young people eager to pursue their dreams in the field of music. They were also the recipients of the 2002 Caribbean Gospel Marlin Music award for outstanding group vocal performance of the year held in Nassau Bahamas for their hit song "The Lord keeps blessing me" from their album "Refuge". They are currently working on their 3rd project, soon to be released. Jumelle plans to go international and continue to write songs of encouragement and God's good news. The twins are pursuing their education, at New England Institute of Technology RI Florida A&M University in Tallahassee FL; one in Music Education and the other Visual

Art. Individually they have ministered and sung for various dignitaries, Governors including the President of the United States. They hope to someday share the stage with the world's greatest gospel ministers and continue to minister the word of God through song. More info on tjsjumelles
