BLUES: Delta Style, BLUES: Rockin' Blues

Details: Bluesman E.Z.Street grew up on the banks of the Mississippi river. Their family home was on the waters edge, so during flood stage they had to move to higher ground quite a few times when E.Z. was young. Which inspired him to write some of his first blues songs. Throughout his career E.Z. has developed a style of music called, Delta Classic Rockin' Blues. You will hear that style of music on this "Goin' Down To Memphis" album, recorded live with no overdubs on acoustic guitar harmonica and vocals. Most of the songs on this album are cover songs, written by Jimi Hendrix, Jimmy Reed, Bruce Springsteen, Eric Clapton, and a few more. Songs E.Z. says he has always loved to play. E.Z. said; "If cover songs were good enough for Clapton, The Beatles, and Elvis, I think they should be good enough for me." Some of the songs on "Goin' Down To Memphis" including the title song are originals written by E.Z. Street. Being able to relate to those who lost their possessions in the New Orleans flood "BLUESMAN E.Z.STREET" wrote and recorded a song as a fundraiser for the hurricane victims called "HURRICANE BLUES" at, HurricaneBluesReliefFund The damage to the Gulf Coast is more than 500 billion dollars. So dig deep and donate everything you can. Your help is appreciated. Money from your donations will be used to help rebuild homes on the Gulf Coast. You can download "Hurricane Blues" by "Bluesman E.Z.Street" at, HurricaneBluesReliefFund.com So drop by, listen, download, and network, by emailing all of your friends with a link to; HurricaneBluesReliefFund.com
