Melodic and harmonic acoustic/alternative folk-rock, two guitars, a bass, three singers and a whole bunch of other instruments. 13 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, ROCK: Acoustic Details: Haiku Rd. is Phoenix's own, acoustic, folk/alternative rock outfit (with an occasional Celtic flavor). The trio of Chris Devine, Erik Hendel, and Richard E. Moore bring acoustic music with passion, energy and authenticity, as showcased in their debut album, If Not Tonight ..., and rich harmonies and raw energy mix with wit and fun for diversely entertaining live performances. If you took all our influences and make, not a soup exactly, but more of a goulash, that's sort of how it goes ... a chunk of Scottish folk here, a spoonful of REM, garnish with Lowen Navarro or Peter Gabriel and a generous dollop of ... well, you get the picture. And like goulash, it all comes off as more than the sum of its ingredients. Once we were told that we sounded like like a "Celtic Crosby, Stills and Nash." That might give you starting point. If Not Tonight ... is a self-recorded, self-produced collection of songs (but don't let that fool you into thinking it's amateurish) on which we've built our performance repertoire combined with other new songs written specifically for this project. We've been able to work unhurriedly and methodically in the comfort of our own homes, producing an organic, energetic and just plain swell CD.
