Twilit pop - atmospheric, melodic, savagely beautiful. Equal parts soaring psychedelia, spectral Americana, and string-laden chamber rock, featuring guest appearances from Keith Lowe, Paul Hiraga (Downpilot), and Eyvind Kang (Blonde Redhead, Laura Veirs). 11 MP3 Songs POP: Psychedelic Pop, ROCK: Americana Details: Led by singer/songwriter Lincoln Barr, Seattle band Red Jacket Mine has spent the last two years perfecting its singular brand of twilit popequal parts soaring psychedelia, spectral Americana, and string-laden chamber rock. Begun as a solo four-track project to satiate an overactive mind trapped in the barren hill country of southeast Missouri, arrangements have grown more ambitious and tape hiss levels have mercifully fallen, but Barr's vivid lyrical imagery and melodic songcraft have remained constant. Joined in Seattle by fellow Missouri transplant Andy Salzman (drums), Seattle rock veteran Patrick Porter (guitar/pedal steel), and Idahoan jungle cat Ryan Chapman (bass), Barr's dreams of Red Jacket Mine-as-real-band finally became reality, and the band set about honing its craft in a series of increasingly high-profile club gigs while Barr penned the songs that would comprise their debut studio album. Recorded at Seattle's Studio Litho by producer/engineer Shawn Simmons, Hello, Old Cloud delivers on the promise of Red Jacket Mine's early recordings and impassioned live performances. Featuring an impressive array of guest musicians, including upright bassist Keith Lowe (Bill Frisell, Fiona Apple), keyboard master Paul Hiraga (Downpilot, Ian Moore), and wizard string arranger Eyvind Kang (Blonde Redhead, Laura Veirs), the album is slated for an April 2008 release. What Others Have Said... "...on the cusp of releasing debut album Hello, Old Cloud, [Red Jacket Mine's] confident orchestrations sound like theyve been around for much longer, as do songwriter Lincoln Barr's mature lyrics and smooth delivery."
