Alternative music with great blends of rock and electronica. 10 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Pop Crossover, ROCK: Modern Rock Details: SEER is born of promise. Two ordinary guys meet by chance-seconds from parting ways on a phone call Jim mentions he plays keyboards while Chris was thinking he had called for the guitarist position that was no longer available. So, they set up a meeting...Chris and Jim with their mutual interests in blending electronica with guitar, bass and drums opens a whole new creative path. The five piece band eventually shrinks to two. They decide then to write an album on their own. What does the prophet say? Something supernatural begins to happen when they meet up for practices. As they begin to write, at certain times, the same ideas come to them each simultaneously without them mentioning anything prior to one another. Keyboard sounds, bass lines, drumbeats and arrangements unfold as two minds meld into one. And it is these ideas that make up the songs on SEER's new project, "Sonic Sugar", named after the digital recording studio Chris and Jim assembled in Burlington-Wisconsin, a city southwest of Milwaukee. Though their plan to put this current project together seemed easy at first, it was filled with obstacles only a certain kind of "believing" could help them overcome. One example: They live in two different cities. On a practice day there are two hours of driving time involved. Doing this five days a week for any extended period of time does make a person weary of trying to make "the band thing" happen. It is happening. Chris and Jim have completed their first full length album together. The prophet says your world is about to change. Change can be a good thing. But you should never lose your "youth" for the sake of it. Our sense of wonder and excitement is a gift. Exploration is still possible. Discovery becomes a holiday. The history of music is made when music evolves. And as a fan, it is you and your enthusiasm for this that drives the future. Invention drives the members of SEER. Chris and Jim have met "the machine", new technologies are something to be embraced. One day the future just happens and we get a new sound, a new sonic experience, something a little different than what we've heard before. We need movers and shakers, those who make us think different, those who show us another way to travel. Someone new to speak to our hearts. This world is getting tired. The fast lane is in need of repairs. Money will not buy you love....wake up friend there is a voice calling you. The prophet wants to meet you. SEER invites you in. We want you to get your groove on. The next train to our music wonderland is ready to board, say, is that Sonic Sugar dripping from your ears?
