Xolin combines electronics, vocals, and cello to create a collage of both exciting and relaxing tracks to listen to whenever life's got you down, so let the mysterious Monton show you the way...afterall, it's Monton's Way... 13 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Industrial, SPOKEN WORD: Comedy Details: Colin Lenehan, who writes music under the pseudonym Xolin, is an 19 year-old graduate of Cranbrook Kingswood Upper School who lives in Chelsea, Michigan. He began his musical experience at the age of 6 with private piano lessons followed by cello at 11 years old. Always fascinated with writing his own music, he finally managed to satisfy his countless unfinished compositions in 2002 with the creation of his first album, Chiano Lake, using nothing more than a Dell laptop, a Casio keyboard, and the "mic-in" option in MusicMatch Jukebox. The CD acted as a Christmas gift for all his friends and family and he soon decided to make it an annual project. Since then, he has created Monton's Way (2003), Con-formist (2004), Hypochronic Stillness (2005), and In the Wake of Fever (2005).
