Timestrider Trey thought that he was repairing the human timeline by reuniting preordained couples across time and space. What he didn't know is that there are only two preordained souls per timeline, and those souls are reincarnated repeatedly until they achieve perfect love. But Sage is learning that truth thanks to a hypnotic past life regression started by the villainous Diadra. Each step in that regression changes forever the ultimate goal Trey must achieve: to form a perfect Trinity. To My Reader: Have you ever wondered who you might have been in a past life? Sage never did, not until the moment she began her past life regression. Now she's learning page by page just who she used to be and how that changes who she's destined to become! Enjoy! About the Author: Nicki Risk lives in a house filled with books and within walking distance of her city's largest library. Her "keeper shelf" takes up two entire walls of her library. She believes that language and imagination, two of humanity's most precious gifts, come together in a welltold story. This is why she often says books are more than just pleasure they're treasure.
