Details: David was the lead guitarist and a songwriter in the 1980's Connecticut bands "Tendencies" and "The Wishing Years." In the 1990's David went solo, released "Animal Afterlife," and inspired by his mostly Puerto Rican neighborhood, fronted various incarnations of his Latin tinged Williamsburg Salsa Company in NYC.

FROM DAVID: "I started writing and performing family music for my two sons at the behest of their loving mommy Fabiana. My gigging days had long been over - but suddenly I was performing at my sons' schools and at other gatherings of friends and family and so I recorded an album of nine songs: "Waking Up Underneath A Tangerine Sun." Leonardo illustrates some of the songs and his work will be featured on GAP boys t-shirts starting in July of this year. Hope you enjoy!"
