ECrawl is an email harvester that swiftly crawls the web and extracts all the emails it can find. It has the ability to reach speeds in excess of 2 million emails per hour. This is the successor to the very popular email extractor MailCrawl with several new functions and fixes. The major difference between ECrawl and other harvesters is the speed and quality of the emails. There is no other program out there that has been able to go faster than 500,000 emails per hour when crawling the web, ECrawl can go at least 400 faster than that. It also has support for SOCKS v5, HTTP and HTTPS proxies to keep you anonymous if you so wish. Spamtraps, honeypots and other similar traps which other extractors fall for is nothing that will fool this program, it ignores them and moves on. You can also use it to search your computer or files of your choice for email addresses. ECrawl can run on any connection that can access the Internet, but the faster the better. The search is fully automated and you can add any amount of keywords for it to go through. It doesnt get any better than this
