ASTROSMASH is a musical tribute to the popular 1980's video game system Intellivision. ASTROSMASH brings the musical sound of the classic 80's game system Intellivision into the 21st century by adding analog effects and original Intellivision game sounds to create a new level in video game music. Using authentic Intellivision musical notes and sounds combined with other sci-fi sounds and atmosphere, vocalist Nino Rebelle and musician Dan Parrott create music that truly sounds out of this world. Musical influences of ASTROSMASH range from Dream Theater and Pink Floyd to Depeche Mode and Duran Duran to Blur and Radiohead to Slowdive and My Bloody Valentine. ASTROSMASH is a supersonic rocket out of the insipid, repetitive music of today and into the beautiful and intense music of tomorrow. With styles ranging from heavy and intense to spacey and mellow, ATLANTIS is a rollercoaster ride of 8-bit progressive rock. The foundation of Astromash originated in 2001 after the breakup of the Los Angeles-based heavy metal band Tenitus. Dan Parrott and Mike Chavez wanted to create not just a band, but a colorful, cosmic, supernatural musical experience. They had the concept, all they needed was a name. Many names were considered, but none seemed to capture the idea of the band. Then, while brainstorming about 80's memorabilia, it came in a flash: Intellivision....ASTROSMASH! Dan and Mike loved the classic video game system, so it was perfect to become the world's only Intellivision tribute band. The band has since become a duo with Nino Rebelle on vocals and Dan creating the music. Combining musical elements of psychedelica, space rock, progressive rock, dance music, and british pop with Intellivision and other weird sci-fi sounds, Astromash is your supersonic rocket out of the insipid, repetitive music of today and into the beautiful and intense music of tomorrow. After five years of songwriting and recording, our debut album "Atlantis" is now completed. The album contains our singles "The Future" and "Club Venus", new versions of our previous demos "Supernova" and "Ocean Blue", plus four new songs including the title track.
