A juxtaposition of just about every popular musical genre, Dan Connor writes music that takes the listener across many emotions, textures and never apologizes for eccentricities. 12 MP3 Songs ROCK: Modern Rock, POP: with Electronic Production Details: Dan Connor is a musician, a producer, and an engineer based out of the Twin Cities. His production company, Connor Productions, was founded on the principals of popular appeal without artistic compromises. The first release from Connor Productions is his own release, Sonoluminescence. A juxtaposition of just about every popular musical genre, Sonoluminescence was composed with the knowledge that very few musicians naturally want to limit themselves to one sound. In this vein, Sono is a highly produced experiment in contrast between organic and artificial sounds. From the heavy synth layering of Experimentation to the open, natural acoustic feel of Intentions, Sonoluminescence takes the listener across a wide range of genres, textures, and emotions and never apologizes for its eclectic eccentricities.
