The current lineup features the songwriting team of St Mix and Bion, along with Vocalists/Instrumentalists Rus-T, and Mc Stash. The group was originally formed by Bion and St Mix in the Summer of '95. Unforeseen circumstance and personal loss had brought these two high-school friends back together, and they quickly found that they had the same ideas on musical direction. Along with Some Guy On Drums, the band quickly produced their first album-length cassette, Life on the Ostrich Farm. Born out of their experiences living both in the city and the countryside, the music drew from both worlds, yet belonged to neither. Thus was born the Alien / B-Boy / Redneck Connection. As a Power Trio, Ostrich Farm rocked clubs throughout the Northeast; from the Better End in Portland, to the Knitting Factory in New York City. Driven by a powerhouse drummer psychically linked to U2, they deftly navigated the depths of Rock, Hip-Hop, Funk, and Industrial Music. This was music to be listened and/or danced to, and the originality of the songs made them impossible to ignore. The trio featured Bion on Vox, Bass, and Fender Rhodes; St Mix on guitar, drum-machine, and Vox; and of course, Some Guy On Drums. This lineup produced several fine CD's and EP's and continued until disbanding in the fall of 2001. Fast-forward to the summer of 2004. The issues and pressures leading to the group's hiatus being resolved, St Mix and Bion reunite to continue more Ostrich Behavior. This time taking a more streamlined, hip-hop approach they produced their latest album, Supernatural Power. Now, with the summer 2005 release of Supernatural Power, Ostrich Farm is once again taking to the stage. Along with new members Rus-T and MC Stash, Bion (turntables, vox) and St Mix (laptop, vox) are taking it to new directions in Art-Hop. Look for them soon at a venue near you!
