Details: Hello, My name is Jim Alberter and I have been working on becoming an artist over the last few years ( lost track) and have been loving it. Clean Power is the venture to help try to Save The Planet thru Music, Art and the invention of Clean Power technologies. My paintings can be viewed on the Humble Artist website at:

jimalberter.HumbleArtist I have recently started my quest toward being an Artist using Guitars, Keyboards, Lyrics and other instruments to try capturing some fleeting thoughts. I also use acrylic paints on canvas to reveal unknown landscapes.. I have noticed many different things happening as I have tried to create my paintings. Sometimes I start out to paint one thing and it becomes something totally different, so it's always a surprise. There is something about creativity that can take us to places in our imagination never before seen when viewing and creating works of Art. Artwork can inspire us to try new things, change the way we feel, or the way we look at the world, they reveal a side of our personality while adding character to the space where displayed. This World is full of gifts and wonders that we learn more about every day but naturally feel in our being as we take time and live in the day. I have often wondered in amazement about nature in this world and others and how this universal design could have been conceived and created or even crazier randomly thrown together and evolved to such a level. I named my band Clean Power because I support the effort toward cleaning up the environment and one way is thru Clean Power technologies. I have been seeing more and more Clean Power technologies being used and developed while older less clean methods become obsolete and that can change the world for the better in my HUMBLE opinion. Thanks for everything, Jim Alberter
