Early influences can be attributed by listening to the sounds of Philadelphia house legend, Robbie Tronco to the Detroit techno sound of Jeff Mills and the New York house movement of Junior Vasquez has inspired these two individuals to create their own original sound of underground house music. In the year of 2002 they produced a dark progressive house track called, "Dark Soul" which was heavily supported by world renowned DJ and producer Robbie Rivera. Over the next few years and right into this present day they would produce tracks that would garner support from some of the biggest names in the house music industry. Names such as John Creamer, Adam Freemer, Richie Santana, Robbie Tronco and Peter Presta are just a few of the names that have supported BeatLevel. The year 2006 would prove to be a very productive year for BeatLevel as they would collaborate with singer/songwriter, Karen Manchester aka "Faren". With her first collaboration ever in house music Faren and BeatLevel combined forces to create, "Distraction" a vocal anthem house track that had gotten heavy support from many DJ's including Chad Jack, Adam Freemer and Robbie Tronco to name a few. She wrote and sang the lyrics for this track while Beatlevel produced all the music. Also completed in 2006 is a remix that BeatLevel did for DJ/Producer legend Peter Presta on his Apple Jaxx Recordings label. The name of the track is, "Doom" by Stephen Seidita with remixes by Peter Presta and BeatLevel. This track has been released worldwide on 12 inch vinyl as well as on digital download. In the year 2007 Beatlevel's ethnic style tribal track "Blackheart" was signed to TKC Music which is owned and operated by That Kid Chris Starapoli. This track was released digitally and on vinyl as well as remixes by Jaso of New York and DJ CyberX from Portugal. Also released that year on Peter Presta's Digital Jaxx label was "Stormchaser" featuring Faren and "Dark Love" featuring Brenda Camille.
