A collection of Jim Brickman-meets-Yanni uplifting instrumentals to accompany you as you dance, celebrate life and possibly even clean the house. 13 MP3 Songs NEW AGE: Contemporary Instrumental, EASY LISTENING: Classical Pop Details: There is a reason for every song on this album. Although I won't tell about them all, I'll tell about a few. Due to a recent illness, I have experienced many of life's most precious qualities, including the love of my dear family and friends (thus, my dedication song, "Family and Friends"). "Sisters' Symphony" is about two sisters in different cities who don't feel the miles between them. One plays the piano; the other plays the flute and drives a limousine. She practices in the limo while waiting for clients...good acoustics. The flute you hear on this song is played by...naturally...my sister. She practiced in the limo while waiting for clients and over the phone with me, recorded her part in Minneapolis and mailed it to Atlanta. "The Goodbye Song" is dedicated first to my mother who loves it most and then to all those who have ever said goodbye to anyone or anything they loved. "Little Girl, Dance" is dedicated to a seven-year-old I met in a hotel lobby. This child sat solemnly in her chair, struggling to keep still while I played the piano. But after several long minutes of resisting, she rose from her chair and dreamily swayed to the music. I was so deeply touched by her heartfelt expression of pure joy that I stayed up all night that night and wrote this song. "You're so very brave," I told her. "I never got up and danced when I was little. Promise me even when you're 99 years old, you'll still dance." The picture on the CD cover is me at the age of four, before I learned to smile...and dance!
