Details: I could celebrate I could jump up and down but the best I could do is to say, go and hear her, buy her CDs and fall under the magic of Chloe Hall John Warner, Trad Now Magazine Australia Well known to lovers of Australian contemporary folk music, Chloe Hall is an engaging, intriguing and charismatic performer but its the simple, undeniable quality of her songs that leave the listener with such an overwhelming emotion. Tragedy is met with grace, loneliness is met with a wry humour - the sun never entirely leaves Chloe's moody autumnal sky. From her early days as a teenage-troubadour on Australias folk-circuit, through years of touring both in Australia and, more recently, North America, Chloe has blossomed into an exciting international artist. THE NEW ABLUM Her new album "Outside", reveals the fulfillment of Chloe's development into the serious recording artist she has always been threatening to become. Accompanied by long standing producer Greg Arnold (Things of Stone and Wood, Carus, Skipping Girl Vinegar), she journeyed to Nashville where they met up to mix with alt-country star producer Brad Jones (Josh Rouse, Bob Evans). Taking the 60s-70s singer-songwriter aesthetic of Chloes third recording, the acclaimed album White Street, and marrying it to a new-millennium acoustica, she has delivered a stunning melodic and harmonic wonderland.
