Details: 1. Average Douche Bag I'm sick of all the bullshit, I'm sick of holding you back, I'm sick of only being half of a man, I'd fight the losing battle, If it means that I feel alright, I'm not afraid to be poor for the rest of my life, You've got a thing about being accepted, By every average douche bag you meet in the street, I've wasted several years trying to learn to respect it, But I still hate most every person I meet. 2. Sounds Like Money You capture the essence of the upper class so beautifully, I can even picture your silver spoon in the way you sing, It sounds like Money to me. You're playing the part of a normal guy with classic ease, Equipped with the friends and the family ties, And your straight white teeth, There are lots of interested parties, You're a pro at networking, Now men with lots of money, Have been brought to your feet saying please, It sounds like Money to me. 3. Old Blue Rows of lights are blinking, Two by two in lanes, Staring at the water, Staring at the waves, Old Blue's on her last leg, Barely off the ground, Mother nature cleaned her plates, And swallowed puget sound, We fell in the ocean, Lasted a couple days, The wreckage all around us, Left me so amazed, In my final thoughts I, Was tired and confused, Is the life we'd like to lead, The life we really choose. 4. Funeral Song On the day of your funeral I'll wonder why, I never came to visit you before you died, On the day of your funeral I'll wonder if, All the time and distance made it hard to live, And if people you knew, Will shed a tear Because they knew you to, On the day of your funeral I will not cry, For a man who breathed but was never alive, When I look down to see what's in my hands, Memories you left me that I can't stand, But if God will forgive you, Does that mean I have to forgive you? On the day of your funeral. 5. Bloody Hand Staying up all night with a broken down perception, And a younger friend from summers past, There's a forest fire that I set on Ponderosa, That burned inside my little head, I woke up with a bloody hand, When you're older you will understand, I have filled my soul with the devil's rock and roll, And look what good it does for me, In the last few years I've forgotten what it's like, To lay down in the summer grass, To feel the time go slowly pass, And I lost it all to fast, Sonny you're no good, You wrecked my master plan, I'm doing what I could, I'm trying as hard as I can, I know I'll never be a man, When you're older you will understand, It's Okay to be owned.
