Master wordsmith and award-winning songwriter, Julianna Waters, with the Heart Hammer Band, has captured the voice of her soul, and created an emotional dance for the listener's heart - it's a little bit folksy, and smooth around the edges... 13 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, FOLK: like Joni Details: "I've got a mountain to my right, an old barn to my left, Let the morning come There's birds singing in the air, a mighty river over there Let the morning come And I don't think it's too much to ask To have a little piece of time to digest life's facts With the sun risin' up and the heat beatin' down Let the morning come" It's music that sits on the fence, not too folksy, approaching country without quite getting there. The instrumentation of guitar, mandolin, pedal steel, fiddle, and cello weave a wonderful feather bed for Julianna's voice. It's about the song, the lyrics, and the feelings that came to life in a few verses and a chorus or two. At Kerrville, Texas a couple of years ago, Julianna wrote this little gem sitting in a state park waiting for me to take a hot shower (I needed it): "This is the land of my father, where the oil fields stretch for hours And the cotton rows lay out for miles and miles The drawl is not lazy, but it swims beneath the language Like the thirsty roots of lilies in a pond" Have a listen to some of this stuff - it's good for you... Barry "Moving songs about life and love sung with passion, warmth, and restraint in all the right places...it's hard not to be empowered by this music..." --Steve Seskin-- #1 Hit Songwriter "Don't Laugh At Me" "Poetically resonant and stylistically diverse, Heart Hammer communicates the many dimensions of the human heart through the delicate power of remarkable songs." --Steve Cahill-- President, Songwriters Resource Network "...first-class musicians..." --Kate Power-- Artichoke Music, Portland, OR
