This pop/rock sophomore release by Joe Nacco pays homage to his glorious roots. Once the storied singer/guitarist/songwriter for indie-favs HEAD, Joe re-records all his favorite early writings from that era. Included is the super smash hit "Down." "Down" was named the #3 song of 2004 (Voter's choice, CRUMBS radio) and the #8 song of 2004 (Critic's choice, CRUMBS radio). Songs you may have heard on the radio include "Can't you see," "Down," "Dirty little girl," "Things Unsaid," "Bath in the sun" and "I'm an alcoholic." Songs from the soundtrack on the 2004 indie-film Used People include "It's not me" and "Push you away." The Head of a Monkey proves to be no sophomore slump. What the critics say: "Joe obviously has talent and a good country/pop/rock sound." - David Brice, Radio Network, New Zealand "If you're looking for a fresh new artist with talent up the wazoo, you've found him. For a kid that got his humble beginning in the Capital District in Upstate NY, I am astounded by the eclectic influences he exhibits." - Meghan Reilly, Impose Magazine "He has a Beatlesque songwriting style that is all his own, combined with a distinctive voice that is instantly recognized." - Linda Fenoff, Greenville Press
