A collection of classical compositions from the co-founder of English progressive rock band Protos ("One Day a New Horizon") 8 MP3 Songs CLASSICAL: Orchestral, CLASSICAL: New Age Details: Rory is a rare individual who applies creative skills to a wide range of artistic, business and academic pursuits. "A Question of Expression" is a volume of classical music with just a splash of jazz influence. Rory was originally a self-taught musician, co-founder of the progressive rock band Protos ("One Day a New Horizon", Airship, 1982). His later classical training led to a music degree at Royal Holloway College, London University, where he specialised in composition and orchestration. A Question of Expression contains compositions from the period 1980 - 1992. The CD has been released to compliment a new collection of progressive rock music ('Passing Decades') and provide a complete musical picture of Rory's talents as a composer/performer.
